An Open Call for Sound Artist in North Brooklyn
Deadline: Monday, August 30, 2010

The North Brooklyn Public Art Coalition (NbPac) is pleased to announce an open call for Brooklyn–based artists to propose projects for an upcoming sound installation.

Artists are invited to submit proposals through August 30, 2010. The selected artist will be notified on September 15, 2010.

Project Description & Guidelines
NbPac invites Brooklyn-based artists to propose projects for a sound installation to be displayed for the greater North Brooklyn community (Bushwick, Greenpoint, Williamsburg) in Spring 2011. Artists are asked to consider the historical, social, and political atmosphere of North Brooklyn's community in their proposals for sound art. A critical element of the project requires artists to select a site and describe how the public will be engaged in that space and with the artwork itself. Artists are encouraged to create a new work or expand upon former projects that act in response to / in conversation with / or as a commentary on North Brooklyn. Collaborative group projects are welcome!

Artists interested in being considered for nbAUDIO 2011 should submit a completed Proposal Cover Page (attached), as well as the required attachments by Monday, August 30, 2010. Proposals received or postmarked after the due date will not be taken into consideration.

About NbPac
The North Brooklyn Public Art Coalition (NbPac) is an arts organization dedicated to collaborating with artists and community stakeholders in Williamsburg, Greenpoint, and Bushwick to produce, present, and support art in public spaces. Formed in 2009, NbPac is a group of artists, arts administrators, and community members who believe that public art and activated public space is vital to an engaged and integrated neighborhood. NbPac aims to promote dialogue concerning urban space; enhance the creative profile of artists living and producing art in North Brooklyn; and advocate on behalf of the North Brooklyn arts Community.

By presenting nbAUDIO 2011, NbPac will assist the selected artist by providing professional, financial and logistical support in the creation of the new artwork. An estimated budget of $5,000 will be used for research, production, and installation of the piece.
